Like the holiday staple this novel is lopped with cherries, filled with nuts and fruit, and doused with a healthy dose of spirit. The ghost from Christmas past in that tale it is Marley; he is an infernal freed from hell and chained to a fruitcake that is constantly nagging, nursing much harm in the small Southern town of Dava. This demon, accidentally released, is on the run from an old domestic house keeping toads. Not down the econoic family she nurtured and raised, and a slew of angelic forces, all determined to send him back to hell from whence he came.

/ CLIENT / FORMAT: HOLIDAY CARD, / MEDIA / METHOD: VECTOR ILLUSTRATION, TYPOGRAPHY, LAYOUT, ART DIRECTION, PHOTOGRAPHY, / DESIGN OBJECTIVES: Traditionally holiday cards have a specific essence and intention. With this card I threw out tradition and focused on the elementary forms connected to the holiday. I wanted this piece to convey a literal depiction of these times by exaggerating pieces and parts aligning together, separate but in the same space, type forms turned as 3D ornamental objects suggesting a kind of deconstruction.
Objective: The formal elements and imagery in this book are used as poetic references to the pair of opposites, Close / Far. The Unity of Opposites was first suggested by Heraclitus, a pre-Socratic Greek philosopher. The Unity of Opposites is described as a situation in which the existence of a thing depends on the co-existence of at least two opposing conditions represented in a field of tension.
